of gratifying proportions. The programme was made up of five over-night affairs, and one stake, the Woodcock, for two-year-olds, the distance of which was a mile, and, as it was run on the turf, it was made the closing affair of the day. Much interest was shown in the sport furnished, which proved to be of a highly satisfactory kind. In every instance the field was of liberal size, and refrifer and Rikenny. The fifth race will be finishes in all six races were keenly contested. A glance at the programme on the way down to the track would cause one to think it was to be one of the "of" days of the meeting, and so it was, so far as the talent's ability to pick winners would go, but from a purely racing point of the are the entries and well view, it was in keeping with the previous days of FIRST RACE-Futurity course. the meeting, an afternoon's diversion in which

It was a disastrous day for those who play favorites, as five of the six suffered defeat, the break coming in the last race, when pockets were empty, and there was little left with which to get even. The bookmakers were, of course, delighted to see the "good things" bowled over one after another, for they have had rather a thorny path

The day's sport opened with a dash over the Futurity Course, for which Chesapeake was made a hot favorite, with Arab second choice, the two holding the others safe, if public form could be used as a standard. Among the long shots in the early betting, was Tom Harding, one of McCafferty & Wishard's lot, who had run on Thursday last and finished in the ruck. The first price posted against him was 30 to 1, but it was eagerly taken, and so steady was the flow of money to back the horse, that at post time 7 to 1 was the best price obtainable. That it was stable money the race plainly proved, for Tom Harding made all the running and won handily despite McCafferty's efforts to make it look as if he were all out. The race plainly showed that his performance on Thurs-day was hardly a true one. His party had made what is called a "killing."

In the second race Ramapo was the one selected to carry the money of the experts, and he closed the favorite at 6 to 5. He was rather unfortunate at the start, yet it is doubtful if he could have

The horses which ran in the fourth race were nearly all of stake class, and the result was some good betting and a hard-fought race. The winner | 107; was the Madison Stable's filly Kentigerna. Her popular young owner was at the track to see her run, and was delighted with her victory. He had a fair-sized bet on her, getting as high as 10 to 1 for his money.

The fifth race brought the surprise of the day.

Hyde Park, a 50 to 1 chance coming with a wild run in the last few strides, and beating out the favorite, Rama, on whom Bergen seemed a trifle over-confident. over-confident.

With Henry of Navarre scratched in the last race, Figaro was made a 7 to 5 favorite, yet was little better played than Prig. who opened at 10 and closed at 2½ to 1. The race was keenly fought throughout, the struggle between Figaro and Curacoa being continued to the final stride, where Figaro was the winner by a head.
